

Sharnbrook Primary Knowledge Planner - Y1 History

Key Question: How have celebrations changed since our grandparents were little?

What I should already know

The past is something that has already happened.

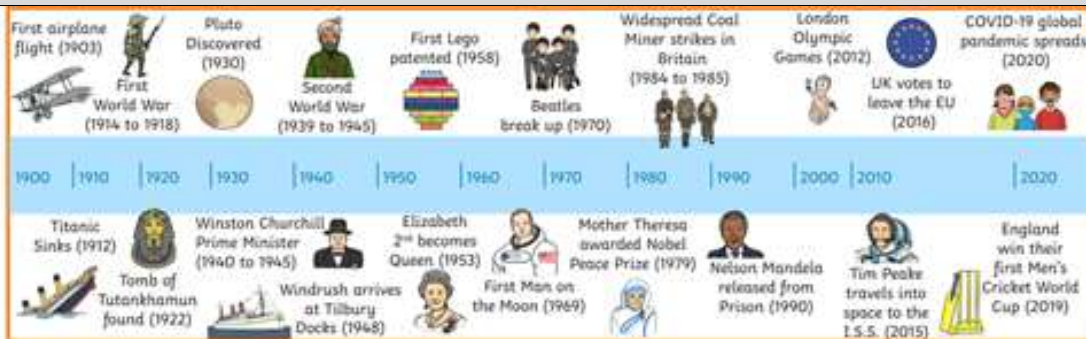

Emphasis: Continuity and Change.

Vocabulary

In the past	Something that has already happened
In the present	Something that is happening now
different	Not the same.
Remembrance Day	A day to remember the sacrifice of all those that have defended our freedoms
Christmas celebrations	A day to celebrate the birth of Jesus
Diwali	A festival of lights
Birthday	A day to celebrate a birth

Timeline

How to be a Historian

- The past is something that has already happened.
- To know how that some things in the past are different to the present and some things stay nearly the same.
- To sort things into past and present, and old and new.